

You have a unique idea to change your business in a way that will give you a clear advantage over your competition. New ideas always mean new software - if it was off-the-shelf your competition would do it too.

There is therefore a bond of trust implicit in this: suddenly we are not just writing software, we are a critical part of your business strategy and we must succeed.

We use Agile Development techniques to build a Pilot that demonstrates accurately and decisively that your idea will work. We bring thirty years of business experience to bear on the problem. We won't fail you.

The critical thing is control: you retain control of the process throughout.

Everything is written in industry standard coding platforms based around the Microsoft model.

On top of that, you own the Intellectual Property rights to the system we develop for you, we retain the IP on our Big Red Platform that delivers it.

What We Do For You

We build a detailed specification for your project.

We build the system on a test platform so that live scenarios can be tested and proven.

We roll the final solution out at a time of minimum disruption and maximum opportunity.

What You Get In Return

A unique solution which fits your business perfectly.

A strategic advantage over your competitors.

An increase in the valuation of your business due to investment in IP.

Access to R&D tax breaks through the investment in the solution.
